Building success with the business telephone leader

What happens when you combine sleek styling with powerful telephone features? The Meridian® 6310 from Aastra Telecom. This digital Centrex telephone provides fast, convenient access to Centrex features professionals rely on to maximize their office efficiency. It also offers benefits not found in similar products — style and exceptional value.

The set supports multiple line functionality using only a single connection and provides automatic prime line selection.

The 7 programmable keys can be set up as either line keys or feature keys. Customize the phone to use the keys as single button access to Centrex features or assign them to Multiple Appearance Directory Numbers (MADN). LCD indicators beside each key provide feature key status.

The adjustable 2-line display is capable of providing the information you need to handle your calling requirements such as Call Display and Reason Display.

An enhanced speakerphone with mute provides excellent sound quality and allows you to perform other tasks while in conversation or during a conference call.

The M6310 is also compatible with the M622 expansion unit. By adding one or two 22-button M622 modules, the Meridian® 6310 expands to provide more programmable keys for lines and features. This can effectively create a low cost "mini-console" telephone ideal for receptionist positions in busy departments.

Performance, flexibility, features and style come together in the Meridian® 6310, part of the next generation in the development of digital Centrex telephones.
